Subject: Microsoft Settlement

To whomever it may concern:

As a veteran computer user since 1984, and as a completely satisfied Microsoft product user, I urge the acceptance of Microsoft's offer to settle by providing computers to schools. It will be good for the schools, good for the children, good for the economy, and fair to Microsoft.

The only ones who are complaining, and the consumers never have, are Microsoft's competitors and some soreheads who would rather have money for themselves than computers for the schools.

Do not delay this any longer. Our national economy is suffering because of it. Retirees portfolios are suffering because of it. Consumers are happy with it. Settle it now without delay.

Sincerely,

Ken McSwain
